cally deferred until Wednesday next. ish Commissioners are preparing for a final stand in these negotiations, and it may now be definitely stated that the Spaniards here will not sign a treaty of peace which yields to Spain no more for the Philippine Lesiands than has thus far been offered or indicated by the Americans. Should the latter announce that the United States is only willong to relimburse Spain for her pacific expenditures in the Philippine Islands, the Spanish Commissioners will reply that their mission is finished. Should this occur it is possible the Spaniards will also suggest a suspension of the negotiations through the Commission and the resumption of negotiations between Madrid and Washington.

It is polated out that if the five Spanish commissioners here signed a treaty yielding the Philippines to the United States without lessening Spain's debt in an apreciable degree they could not return some with the prospect of any political niture before them, and possibly would be a danger of violence at the hands of mobs. A dispatch to the Temps from Madrid ays the officials there do not believe the ease a negotiations will be broken off. It idds:

"If the United States persist in their possible the Spanish commissioners here signed a treaty yielding the Philippines to the United States without lessening Spanir's debt in an apreciable degree they could not return some with the prospect of any political number of the Promise of the Southport of the Southport Division."

Stephane Mallarme, recently deceased. The Temps states that the numerous friends of the poet gave him a luncheon, and that many fair Parisiennes graced the table. Among those present were M. Rodenbach, M. and Mme. Catulle Mendes, MM. G. Kahn, P. Quillard, Herold, Desmoulins, Fasquelle, Charpentier, Courtlene, Natanson, Leon Hennique, J. Carliere, Merrill and Marieton.

Berlin, Nov. 14. Prince Herbert Rismark announces that there will be no public invitations to the entombment of the remains of his father, which will take place on November 27. The mansoleum is nearly completed externally, but the inernal decorations will not be finished until the Spring. It is reported in court circles that the Emperor will not attend the entombment, as he is offended at the curt treatment he received at the time of the obsequies.

Dusseldorf, Nov. 14.—This is a day of rejoicing for the inhabitants of Rhenish Prussia, as it is the occasion of the opening to the public of one of the most substantial and beautiful bridges on the European Continent.

From early morning the streets have been crowded with vehicles of all sorts, from city and country, and with a great multitude of visitors on foot, all anxious to cross the bridge, which spans the widest and most historic part of the old Rhine. At the head of the procession, which practically opened the structure, were carriages containing the Minister of the Interior, at the Town Hall to-night.

This bridge contains the widest spans of any greening the Phine and left. This bridge contains the widest spans of any crossing the Rhine, and in its con struction, which consists entirely of wrought iron, art and taste have played equal roles.
